Youth Justice Committee at work

By Ceilidh McClurg

When a young offender is arrested he or she is often rushed through a justice system full of time and cost constraints and may not receive a punishment suited to them.

That is exactly what the Didsbury Youth Justice Committee is trying to avoid. They take the time and the effort to tailor make a punishment for first and second time young offenders.

The relatively new committee in Didsbury just received its first case, one year after the motion to put such a committee in place was started. Their official designation from the Alberta Minister of Justice office came almost a year from the day the motions started, on June 9 of this year.

"We want to deal with our own youth in our community," says Cindy Gruber who spearheaded the whole idea and is now the chair of the executive.

Gruber was feeling a level of frustration that many people may experience. She saw young offenders in this community who were committing a crime, getting a judge ordered sentence, and going out and committing yet another crime. It was a vicious circle she saw no sense in. Gruber confided in a friend who happened to have known a little something about the community youth justice committees in other Alberta communities. She directed Gruber to go to the local probation officer and talk to him about the possibility of setting one up in Didsbury.

"Youth crime is on the rise and instead of sitting there and complaining about it, I wanted to do something about," says Gruber, who has young children of her own.

What she discovered while talking with the probation officer turned out to be some motivating statistics.

tivating statistics.

According to the crown prosecutors' office statistics, young offenders who go through the conventional youth court have a rate of reoffence of 85%. On the other hand, youth that go through community based youth justice committee have a dramatically lower rate of reoffence of 4%.

"We in Didsbury hope that by catching some of these kids they won't reoffend," she says.

Gruber and most youth justice committees believe the reason may lie behind the personal touch. She says youth court and judges are dealing with so many cases they just don't have the time or the manpower to deal individually. But, youth justice committees go the extra step to understand why the child is doing what they are doing.

Gruber explains a young offender who has committed a nonviolent crime can have the case referred to the committee by either the prosecutor or themselves. At that point three of the 17 volunteer members are appointed to a sentencing board who then investigate the individual case more thoroughly.

The three may speak to the parents, the school and other people in the youth's life who may provide some further insight into the reasoning behind the crime. The group also speaks one on one with the young offender to have him or her explain their actions. The victim can also be part of the input if they choose to do so.

After this process, the board comes to an agreement on what punishment will appropriately fit the crime.

They will deal with the youth in three common sentence types: restitution, youth being responsible for their actions (righting the wrong), and in some cases monetary responsibility.

Development plan to be revamped

By Ceilidh McClurg

Outdated and overdue, the Municipal Development Plan for the Town of Didsbury is being rewritten.

Planning for the future is important to growth pattern Didsbury is going to take over the next decade or so according to the town development officer,

Robert Wigg.

The current plan in place was written in 1981 and revised in 1986.

"It is very much out of date... It's eleven years old and there's been a lot that's happened in Didsbury since then," says Wigg. "As a result the town is starting the process of developing a new general municipal plan."

general municipal plan."

A steering committee to guide the development of the new plan was organized by town council at their meeting last Tuesday. The committee will consist of the regular members of the Municipal Planning Commission, who is the town's development authority.

RCMP notes

Car chase through Didsbury

• Last Tuesday night at 10:30 p.m. the Innisfail Freeway Patrol responded to a complaint of suspicious males putting a licence plate on the rear of a vehicle. This vehicle was of similar description to a car involved in a theft from a gas station at Red Deer's Gasoline Alley, a short time earlier. RCMP attempted to stop the car a short time later near Innisfail, but it failed to stop and continued south. The suspect avoided police spike belts at Olds and Didsbury, and was partially disabled north of Airdrie. The car continued into Calgary, where the Calgary Police Service took over the pursuit. The suspect vehicle was forced to stop on 17th Ave. S.E. and three males were taken into custody.

Hughie Milo Twyoungmen, 26, of Morley will be charged with several matters in relation to this incident, including dangerous driving, failing to stop for a peace officer, suspended driving, theft under $5,000 plus two other traffic offences.

The other two occupants are under investigation at this time, and police believe the vehicle may be stolen.

Town council notes

New Sgt. makes first recommendation

Sgt. Ray Gaultier and newly assigned Sgt. Ron Platz attended last week's town council meeting. One man was there to say 'goodbye' and the other there to say 'hello.' Sgt. Gaultier who is retiring this month said, "I have certainly enjoyed my years here." Sgt. Platz said he was happy to be in Didsbury and welcomed anyone on council or in the community to come speak to him. He also made a suggestion to council that the RCMP consider charging for criminal record checks, which is not currently being done. Platz pointed out that every other municipality he has worked for has charged for this service. "It's not really a police function," he said. The council accepted the suggestion as information and may address the issue at a later date.

It's official

The Countrywynde Estates development agreement is being signed by both the town representatives and the developers' lawyers. Council passed a bylaw stating they approve the density of 1.5 people per unit for the purposes of calculating the off-site levies. Although council admitted that may be a little low for the adult community complex, they all agreed going to two would be considered unreasonable.

Idea up in smoke

Town council received a letter from local fire chief, Rick Mousseau asking them to participate in a program to provide smoke detectors for any person who needs one. The fire department would then volunteer labor and time to install the detectors. The department estimated up to 1500 smoke detectors could be required in the fire protection area and the cost would be split between the Rural Fire Protection Association and the town. The required contribution would have been up to $7500 as part of Fire Protection Month during October.

The council denied the request. "My opinion is that this is a user pay thing," said Mayor Ray Lea. "You need to give the fire department credit for initiative but the town just doesn't have the dollars."

JAWS

The Didsbury Volunteer Fire Department also requested funds from the town to purchase a new set of the so called, 'Jaws of Life.' Council discussed alternatives to raise funds for the equipment but did not approve the $12,000 to $15,000 in the fire department's budget for this year. Coun. Gary Dohla moved the item be considered in the 1998 budget instead.

MDP goes under the knife this year

Also on the steering committee will be two members at large, Tony Martens and Cheryl Dahl. Also a prominent part of the discussion will be two contracted professional planners.

However, all of these people aside, Wigg says the most important information that will be put towards the plan will come from the public.

"This is not meant to be a political process," says Wigg although he adds that the final draft will have to be approved by council. However, in the meantime the town office says it is going to make a full fledged effort to make sure anyone who wants to have input will get their chance.

"We will be holding a series of public meetings," he says.

The first of which will be October 15 at the Five-0 Club from 4 to 8 p.m.

"Please come out and take part in these meetings," he says. The whole initiative from start to finish, including a number of public meetings, is expected to take eight to 10 months.

The Municipal Development Plan is referred to by Wigg as "The Motherhood Document" the town must use in future development." It outlines the zoning, road system plans, establishing town densities, essential services, the environmental concerns, and many other aspects of future growth of Didsbury. Wigg explains if a request for a permit or a development were to cross his desk that does not meet the guidelines created he is forced to deny the request.

There are provisions to change the plan only if a bylaw is passed by council.

He says although the steering committee will most likely spend most of their time examining what is happening within town limits, they do realize the town will grow before another plan is written and will include plans for possible annexations.

On that note, the steering committee will also be in discussions with any interest groups that could be affected by the town's planning, for example the County of Mountain View. He also says it will include the school board, the Didsbury and District Chamber of Commerce and the Tourism and Economic Development Board.

Wigg encourages anyone who would like to get involved in the process to call the town office.

Mother wants action after son is in a near miss

By Ceilidh McClurg

A local boy is still rattled from his near brush with death in the form of a 800,000 ton train.

David Schiffers was riding his bike towards home in the late afternoon Monday when he proceeded across the train crossing at 15 Ave. in Didsbury. Schiffers told the Review he was 'sort of' daydreaming and did not notice the signals that a train was coming through.

To the horror of the occupants of three cars waiting at the lights they saw him go right by them. When he came to the realization he was about to be hit by the train, Schiffers jumped off his bike and rolled onto the gravel next to the tracks. On a split second later his bike was under the wheels of the locomotive and sparks from the metal frame were flying. A few moments later all that remained was a piece of twisted metal that used to be his new bicycle.

"I thank God he had a reaction to fear and jumped, for some people in the same situation would just freeze up," says his frightened mother Andrea Huber.

"It was a complete accident," she says. She says she spoke with Schiffers after the ordeal and believes that he did not try to intentionally beat the train.

She adds, "We all make mistakes but this one almost cost him his life. It could have been prevented by more adequate safety."

A witness to the accident does not agree that the boy did not notice the train coming, instead she believes he played a dangerous game of 'chicken,' that didn't work in his favor.

"There is no ifs, ands or buts about it, he tried to beat that train," says Cherrie Crawford who was the second in a row of three cars sitting at the tracks at the time of the incident.

She explains she was sitting in her car with her kids preparing to count the train cars, as they always did, when she saw Schiffers ride up past the vehicles. She says he seemed to be eyeing the distance of the train while the bells and whistles were sounding and judging if he could make it across in time. "It looked to me like he thought, 'Oh, I can make it,'" says Crawford who has three children of her own who cross the tracks to go to school everyday.

"Next time he's not going to be so lucky," she says. She is concerned that instead of using the horrible scare to teach the child a lesson, his parents are placing blame.

Huber believes her son's side of the story but, accident or not, Huber has taken to task the ominous job trying to convince the town and everyone else that there is a need for more sufficient security at all railway crossings in town.

"Safety changes, that's what I'm looking for," she says. Last year at Canadian rail crossings across the country 20 people were killed.

That's a scary statistic for Huber and she wants to prevent something tragic happening in this community. For the past week, Huber has been frantically trying to gather information on possibility of installing safety barrier arms in Didsbury.

As a resident who lives relatively close to the tracks, Huber says she sees people blatantly ignore the warning signals when a train is approaching and she is concerned someone is going to seriously hurt or killed if gates aren't installed.

"It's pretty obvious everyone is just running through the lights," says Schiffers' dad, Peter. He says he is fully supportive of his wife's endeavour to get gates put in.

She has spent most of her days lately in meetings with town administration, CPR representatives, the MLA and neighbors. She reveals everyone has been very supportive except, she feels, the town office.

She accuses town office of not wanting to put in gates because it costs $191,000, when in fact, the town would be required to pick up only 12.5% of the final bill, with CPR paying 7.5% and the federal government paying 80%. The total cost to the town would be in the $26,000 range, with 50% of the yearly maintenance cost of $6,000.

Huber says she believes so strongly that the town can afford at least one gated crossing that she has requested copies of the operating budget so she can see how much is in reserves. She will also be requesting a meeting with the council and administration.

Town director of engineering and operations, Wes Yeoman says he agrees the incident was scary but he says the town council has addressed the issue of putting in gates last year and turned it down. At their meeting Sept. 3 in 1996, a letter was sent to council from CPR indicating their financial cost sharing structure and offering to put forward their share of the money for one crossing.

"It just wasn't well received," says Yeoman referring to the cost sharing equation. Council accepted the letter for information but nothing was done afterwards because of the high cost.

"You can't put a cost on somebody's life," retorts Huber.

Crawford, who witnessed the accident won't argue on that point. "Any mother would like see those things up," she says.

Huber thinks that even one crossing would be better than no crossing. She suggests the council take on the project in increments. Yeoman says that is a possibility, but he has no authority to make that decision, it is always up to councillors.

So, this issue is far from over.

"I am not going to stop because I see the danger... I will be a nuisance if I have to," says Huber. She encourages anyone who supports her to write to Andrea Huber at Box 12, Site 5, R.R. #2, Didsbury, Alberta, T0M 0W0.

"I love this town and I feel the community should come together a little more strongly (to get the gates) and quit sitting around talking about it," says Huber.

As for David Schiffers, he says he'll surely be more careful next time he needs to cross the tracks. Oh, and he's a little bit overwhelmed from all of this attention.

Huber has donated the twisted bike to CPR to use as a demonstration tool when the company does train safety demonstrations in area schools.

LUCKY LAD
David Schiffers is counting his lucky stars after almost being hit by a speeding train last week. He holds what is left of his new bike.

Closure causes confusion

By Ceilidh McClurg

A laneway closure that started out to be a simple matter, turned into a mess that town council had to sort out last week.

The laneway behind the Didsbury Esso, or 16 Ave. and 20 St. has been blocked for seven years. A couple of business owners wished to have the laneway reopened and presented their case to town council at their Tuesday meeting. Among the voices of residents worried about too much traffic flow and the business owners, Coun. Don Watt spoke up.

"Unfortunately that barrier that is up there now is illegal," said Watt. He told council no bylaw would be needed to remove the barrier if they so chose because a bylaw to close the area had never been put into place.

Town director of engineering and operational services, Wes Yeoman told the residents and the business owners he had researched with the provincial archives of municipal bylaws and found nothing.

"Everyone just assumed there was a bylaw," said Yeoman.

Most local residents who spoke at the public meeting held before town council told the councillors they were concerned about noise and dust affecting their homes. Because the majority of the people at the meeting felt this way, the councillors chose not to address the issue of reopening the laneway and instead to pursue officially closing it.

"This current administration is committed to doing this correctly, even if that means correcting past mistakes," said Yeoman who admitted the oversight was embarrassing for current administration even though they were in power at the time.

Mayor Ray Lea told the councillors after the public meeting ended, "Let this be a lesson to us that we not let something like this go by the wayside."

Coun. Vance van Dam made the motion to table the issue until further investigation and instructed the administration to draft a bylaw to have the laneway officially closed, the issue of where the barricade will go will be examined closely.

Youth justice in town

"The whole idea behind a justice committee is to make the youth responsible for their actions," says Gruber. She adds, "However, there is a fine line you've got to walk to make it effective and that's going to be the challenge."

Gruber says there should be no misconception that the committee will either be a "bleeding heart" or too extreme in any case.

"We have a well rounded committee," she says adding there are representatives of all justice viewpoints, ages, and communities. All of the Youth Justice Committee volunteers also ad to undergo an oath of confidentiality to protect the youth under the Young Offenders Act and each sitting member was also put through a security check. A formal constitution or set of guidelines has also been written and submitted to Alberta Justice.

The Didsbury Youth Justice Committee also reports it will send a report biannually to the Didsbury Review for publication.

"We want everyone to know what we are doing," says Gruber. She adds, "It was a lot of work setting it (the committee) up, but everyone worked very, very hard."

Anderson located in Calgary

By Ceilidh McClurg

George Anderson who had been missing for almost a month has been located last Tuesday.

RCMP Sgt. Platz reports Anderson was found safe in Calgary and his wife, Dorothy Moore-Anderson joined him there immediately after receiving a phone call from him.

"He's alive and he's well and they are down there together," said Platz.

RCMP and Anderson's wife were relieved to have found

Anderson in such good condition. There had been some concern that he suffered from medical problems and not taken his medication with him. He is currently checked into a Calgary hospital. His wife thanks everyone for their concern.

YOUTH JUSTICE QUICK FACTS

• In 1996 there were approximately 24 young offender cases in this jurisdiction that would have been eligible to go to a Youth Justice Committee. The number was the same in 1995.

• Have been in existence since roughly 1985 and were first attempted on an Indian reserve.

• There are 57 Youth Justice Committees in towns and cities across Alberta.

• Other committees in the vicinity are Airdrie, Cochrane, Drumheller. Olds attempted to start one earlier this year but have been unsuccessful to this point.

EDITORIAL / OPINIONS

Train safety training

Ceilidh McCLURG

Train safety has obviously been a concern, and always will be a concern in this town and towns across Canada who sit along the railway tracks. My advice-BE SMART.

Use your head. I know after living in Didsbury for many years, some may become ambivalent or even sometimes forget the tracks are there. But, there is a difference between being inattentive and being altogether stupid when your life can hang in the balance of your decision.

My first time in Didsbury (I can't believe that was six months ago) I witnessed something that made my eyes almost pop right out of my head. The train was coming, the whistle was blowing, the lights were going and a young person ran across the tracks just barely being missed. It was a stupid thing to do and could have cost him his life.

Was there really somewhere he had to be that was so important that he was willing to trade in a brush with serious injury or worse yet, death to get there a few minutes earlier?

Another alarming incident. A mother pushing a baby carriage runs across the tracks to beat an oncoming 800,000 tonne speeding object. Need I say more?

As for the coverage on a Calgary news station of a local boy who came within inches of his life when crossing the tracks, I found it to be somewhat slanted and an attack on our town. Let us not forget hundreds of small towns across Alberta are situated along the rail lines and very few have crossing gates.

However, while watching the coverage one can plainly see in the background, the lights are flashing, the whistle is blowing, the bell is ringing and not one, not two, but three vehicles cross anyway, including a company truck and a bus full of seniors. I don't get it.

In this recent society we are so busy demanding our personal rights, we have forgotten our responsibilities. Yes, it is your right to be safe in the town. However, it is your responsibility to take the steps necessary to assure that safety. You can't always turn to someone else and blame them for something that you should have taken responsibility for. It's called scapegoating and it goes on way too much.

Don't get me wrong, if anyone were to actually lose their life on the tracks it would be a horrible tragedy and I am far from opposed to getting gates, even at one I would feel more comfortable, but it's still a huge expense.

Here's another question. To put in a crossing arm, the federal government would pick up 80% of the $191,000 cost, the town would pick up 12.5%, and Canadian Pacific Railways would cover only 7.5%. There is something I see being wrong with this equation. CPR are the ones making all the money off the rail lines. Why are they only covering the smallest percentage of the cost? I would think it should be the town who would cover the smallest amount.

If there was only one gate parents could train their kids to only cross the tracks at that crossing. But, then again, parents should have already trained their kids not to cross a track foolishly.

Hey, I have an idea, why don't we let the issue go to plebiscite to see if we want to spend the money for the gates? Are the residents willing to see a tax increase to offset that cost? I would be, but then again I'm a renter.

Interest in occult against God

Dear Editor,

During the past short time I have become aware that involvement with the occult has become more prevalent and can even come into our community.

While, on the surface this might appear to be merely for entertainment or an innocent pastime we need to be warned they can lead to serious consequences.

It has been part of my experience to know people who suffered bondage and oppression and could not find peace of mind, until they renounced any involvement in the occult.

We need to search our hearts before God because activities that seem innocent enough to us can lead us on to dangerous ground.

In Deuteronomy 18: 10, 11 and 12 we are admonished: "there should not be found any who use divination, an observer of times, an enchanter, a witch, a charmer or consulter with familiar spirits, a wizard or a necromancer; for all these things are an abomination to the Lord."

For these reasons I am offended by and opposed to any such activities coming into our town.

Many months were spent on beautifying our town on the outside. Let us be just as concerned as to what takes place on the inside.

Sincerely,
Margaret Fradley

Terry Fox Run a success in Didsbury

Dear Editor,

On Sunday, September 4, 42 participants once again gathered together in support of the Terry Fox Run. Our community has hosted eleven runs to raise money for cancer research and each time we have been very pleased with the results.

This year's run was no exception. We are pleased to announce that over $3,273 was pledged and donated for the Terry Fox Run.

The organizing committee would like to thank those individuals and companies that donated time, space, advertising, tables, food, funds etc. to make this year's run go smoothly, namely: Richard Marz, MLA; Mayor Ray Lea; Town of Didsbury; Didsbury Fire Department; Mountain View Ambulance; AG Foods. We would especially like to thank the participants who gathered pledges, completed the route and ensured that our community would make a difference in the battle against cancer. We look forward to seeing you all again next year.

Sincerely,
Grant and Brenda Hemming,

Judges and Klein should remember Constitution when it comes to the gun legislation issue

Dear Editor,

To allow the provincial government to take the federal government to court over gun legislation is beyond stupidity. The Constitution Act of 1982 details a list in very, very clear language that even a grade four student could understand, detailing the division of Federal and Provincial Government powers. Section 92, Sub Section 13 gives property rights to the provinces. Now that may be tough for Ralph Klein to understand and it may be beyond the intelligence of your average Judge but it is not too much for you and I to handily comprehend.

Section 52 of the Constitution Act, 1982 says, "The Constitution of Canada is the supreme law of Canada, and any law that is inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution is, to the extent of the inconsistency, of no force or effect."

Sec. 94 of the Constitution says any act changing this power shall not have effect in any province unless and until it is adopted and enacted as Law by the legislature thereof. So when you can show me where Bill C. 68 has been passed in the Alberta Legislature that is when I will register all of my firearms and until such time Mr. Klein and his Court challenge and the Courts of Alberta can take a hike.

In 1950, Chief Justice Rinfret said in a similar case, "The constitution of Canada does not belong to either Parliament or to the Legislatures; it belongs to the country and it is there that the citizens of the country will find the protection of the rights to which they are entitled. Neither legislative bodies, federal or provincial posses any portion of the powers vested in the other and they cannot receive it by delegation."

I am not prepared to trust either of our governments with protection of me. Thanks but no thanks, I will take our Canadian Constitution.

Train crossings need to be respected

Dear Editor,

I couldn't believe the Calgary 7 News on Tuesday, Sept. 16 regarding the train crossings in Didsbury. I find it hard to imagine that someone wouldn't notice a train coming with whistles blowing and lights flashing when I live blocks away from the tracks and can hear every train.

It's time parents take more responsibility for their children. Teach their child how to respect traintracks and cross safely. Adults as well need to take responsibility for themselves and be defensive drivers. We've all heard the statistics and how often people DRIVE into trains. It's time to use brains as well as eyes and ears.

Sincerely,
Laurie Yeoman

Premier ignoring non-french minority in Quebec when it comes to separation

Dear Editor,

This letter is written in response to a recent Calgary Herald article on the premiers' talks on national unity.

The article stated that the proposed resolution included "a statement recognizing the unique character of Quebec society and the role of the legislature of the Government of Quebec to protect and develop the unique character of Quebec society."

As a Canadian citizen who was born and raised in Quebec for the first 23 years of my life, it hurts deeply to see Premier Klein's indifference to the plight of the nonfrancophone Quebec minority. Statements of appeasement such as this toward the Quebec government only serve to give the government in Quebec more leverage to further harass that minority. These, our fellow Canadians, should enjoy all the rights that position offers, not be made to feel like they don't belong. Many of those who are young and energetic have left Quebec. Many, such as seniors who have little more than their home and pension don't have that option. Quebec is their home. Why should they be forced out?

The article went on to state that, "The resolutions planned are non-constitutional so they don't require a public referendum, but Klein said the process... could eventually lead to amending the Constitution."

It has long been speculated that Premier Klein has aspirations to be Prime Minister. This apparent backdoor approach to amending the Constitution seems to be a step towards fulfilling that aspiration. But anyone who is indifferent to the needs of minority language Quebec Canadians has no right to be Prime Minister.

Klein plans to have MLA's consult their constituents on the unity resolution, but "consultations" of the Alberta public on issues such as health care ended in the government not listening to public opinion. Premier Klein plans to have the resolution passed in December by the Alberta legislature. The legislature was not to reconvene until spring of 1998. Is he going to call it back not to discuss more pressing issues such as education, health care, VLTs, etc., but to simply pass this unity resolution?

Call your MLA. Demand a public referendum on the unity resolution, not public "consultation". By the way, I may be a little thick, but what is the difference between "unique character" and "distinct society"?

Holland to cut back hog production

Dear Editor,

Before Albertans get too excited about plans to triple provincial hog production we should look at lessons learned in other parts of the world.

On August 31 CBC radio ran a story on the hog cholera epidemic that has broken out in Holland. The epidemic is attributed to intensive hog production in Holland, 15 million hogs, up from the 11 million hogs there ten years ago. There are too many hogs being raised too close together. To date about 800,000 diseased hogs have had to be slaughtered at a cost to Dutch taxpayers of $3 billion. The Dutch Ministry of Agriculture plans a further 25% reduction in the hog population by the end of 1998, which would result in one-half of hog farmers being put out of business.

The Dutch are very smart people, world renowned experts in agriculture and especially hog production. But they made a mistake - too many intensive hog production farms in too small an area. Now they are paying the price.

Some areas of Alberta already have the most intensive livestock productions in Western Canada. I wonder if we will be able to control our greed long enough to learn from the disastrous consequences of intensive hog farming in Holland, Taiwan and North Carolina? Taiwan also has a hog disease epidemic. North Carolina plans a two year moratorium on additional hog production. Or will we greedily keep increasing production until we are faced with our own hog disease epidemic.

We should slow down and study the long term economic, disease and environmental risks before proceeding further.

Yours truly,
B. Johnson

Suggestions to battle government funding filth

To the Honorable Mrs.

Shirley McClellan,
Community Development,

We appreciate your work as Community Development Minister and realize that the task is no doubt much more complex than we are aware of. However, a matter of concern to us is in regard to public funding of art works that are offensive to most Albertans.

We are deeply offended by the book titled Neurotic Erotica by Timothy J. Anderson, for the following reasons:

1. It is bad poetry.
2. It is pornographic filth.
3. It promotes sexual deviation and perversion.

4. It violates community and moral standards held by the majority of Albertans.

5. It makes light of Christian faith, of the Bible and perverts faith in God.

We are further offended that you, as a Minister in the Alberta government, authorized that public money be granted to promote the production of this shameful material. We realize that choosing art and artists for whom funds are to be allocated is difficult. We offer this suggestion:

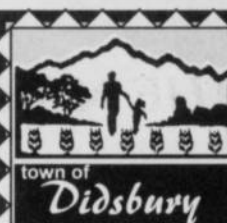

Discontinue all government contributions to art. Rather, give tax deductions to those who give support to the arts of their choice.

This would put the onus on the people themselves, to support art that reflects their standards and also on the artists to produce material that is acceptable to the constituency. This would be a democratic way of promoting art without discriminating against the views of any individual. We believe that Albertans would like to have art that uplifts and which has real beauty, rather than that which demoralizes and degrades.

We wish you wisdom and courage to carry on your work as a public minister.

Yours, truly,
Henry and Erna Goerzen,
Didsbury

News from the Dragon's Den

By Cat Turner

Hello again from the Dragon's Den!

Congratulations to our golf team. On Monday, Sept. 15 the DHS golf team participated in the AA Zones that were held in Drumheller, with both the girls' and the boys' teams coming in third. Individual results are as follows: Aimee Hunter - 117; Angie Chios - 199; Deanna van Dam - 124; Micheal From - 87; Jonathon Hooper - 88; Jessie Hnidy - 91; Rob Collinge - 94.

Senior volleyball begins next week. The senior girls' team includes: Tracy Strange, Stacey Haerberle-Luft, Deanna van Dam, Carley Thomas, MacKenzie Russell, Melissa Feenstra, Lindsay Tainsh, Courtney Murphy, Stephanie McNeil, Carmen Nervell and Kael Baergen. The senior boys' team includes: Shawn Ausehus, Beau Hawkings, Trevor Redmond, Jon Kosinski, Jason McNeil, Steve Redmond, James Edward and Grant Konschuh.

Mr. Logan and the mechanics 12 class are busy stripping motors and classifying the parts - they wish to send their thanks to both Waymore Autowreckers and Ron's Automotive for their generous contribution of motors. Donations of old cars or motors are always welcome and appreciated.

Mrs. Becker and Mrs. Corlette are the two teacher supervisors for the Grad Committee and Grad '98. The first meeting is on Monday, Sept. 22 at lunch hour. At this time all grade 12's are expected to attend in order to vote on their Grad Committee. Any parents who would be interested in volunteering please let Mrs. Becker know at the Awards/Meet the Teacher night on September 23.

The middle school and the high school language arts/english teachers will be hosting a student/parent workshop on editing/revising skills that will help their children at home on essays and other writing, on October 7 at 7 p.m. at Westglen. Please be sure to attend - both you and your child.

Just a reminder that Didsbury High School will be having their Awards Night/Meet the Teacher Night on Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in DHS Gym.

Up coming events include the Battle of the Grades Day and Dance on September 26.

Pumpkin Festival coming to Carstairs this weekend

The biggest fall festival for the community of Carstairs occurs this coming weekend, with the annual Pumpkin Festival at the Carstairs curling club on Saturday, Sept. 27.

The festival offers entertainment and attractions for spectators of all ages, right from the moment the doors open to the public at 11:30 a.m.

Afternoon entertainment includes shows by groups like the Carstairs Kitchen Band, the Meadowlarks and the Hoschka Honky Tonk Cloggers.

Carstairs' own Moinka with a "K" will also be on hand, as she is organizing a talent show at 1 p.m. featuring many of her own music students.

Also, during the afternoon guests at the pumpkin show can check out the mini-trade, craft and bake sale which features about 35 tables.

Children under the age of ten won't want to miss the popular IODE fishing pond, where they always come up with a prize.

But the best part of the annual festival has to be the pumpkins! There are all sorts of contest categories for local residents and visitors from out of town. Categories are as follows, with junior participants being those aged 16 and under.

Pumpkins:
Locally grown: most perfect (jr/sr) and largest (jr/sr).

Out of town grown: most perfect (jr/sr) and largest (jr/sr).

Novelty: (carved or decorated): famous personality, fairy tales, transportation and general.

Baking:

Canned pumpkin pie, fresh pumpkin pie, iced pumpkin cake, pumpkin loaf, six pumpkin cookies, six pumpkin muffins and an open category for other edible pumpkin creation.

Another exciting contest is for the best scarecrow. There are two categories, general and novelty, which usually make for some most interesting exhibits.

Participants should bring their entries to the curling rink on Friday between 7 and 9 p.m. or Saturday between 8 and 10 a.m. Judging takes place from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Awards will be presented at 2:15 p.m. by special guests Candice Kubek and Chrissy Jochems, the Carstairs Rodeo Queen and Princess.

COLOR BLINDNESS

The term color blind is often applied to people who, strictly speaking, do not suffer color blindness. Only a few individuals actually see the world entirely in black and white. In most other cases, the problem is a color deficiency which makes it difficult to recognize certain colors or shades.

The commonest type of color problem is the eye which uses all three primary colors, but in wrong proportions. Another form is the person who only uses two of the three primary colors. Such an individual will be either red blind, green blind, or, extremely rare cases, blue blind.

It is a genetic defect which occurs primarily in men. Sixteen times as many men as women suffer from this form of color blindness. While there is no known cure, all is not hopeless. Some interesting work has been done with filters and tinted contact lenses which often help the individual discriminate between colors.

Mr. Spence:

There are now four kindergarten classes. We are pleased to be able to accommodate families with the different options. Each of these classes also has a full-time aide! There was an assembly this month. We sang lots of songs.

Mrs. Murphy:

Mrs. Murphy is glad to be back, even though she has a mountain of paperwork on her desk.

Mrs. Iverson:

We are reading a book called "Nice New Neighbors" and we're talking about our nature walk and our neighborhood.

Mrs. Hendersen:

We began the year in grade one with drawing and collage. In grade two and three we are using color to create design. Then we also do collage.

Mrs. Hahn - ECS:

We are learning about safety, school rules and routines.

Mr. Dickinson - Grade 1:

Well here we go again! 1 B is the best grade one class in the school. We are going to learn a lot this year. We all had a wonderful summer.

Ms. Turner - Grade 1:

We are studying colors. We are learning names and we love stories. In math we are matching sets.

Mrs. Hohenwarter - Grade 1:

We are learning colors and signs of Autumn. We are learning about the alphabet and numbers one to 10.

Mrs. Mertens - Grade 1 and 2:

We are learning about colors in LA and about temperatures in science. We are learning about numbers in math.

Mrs. Harabok - Grade 2:

We are learning about our community. I have the best class in the school. Mrs. Campbell is our helper. We are learning about magnets.

Mrs. Enes and Mrs. Paton - Grade 2:

We are learning about the community of Didsbury. We have a wonderful class this year.

Mrs. Charron - Grade 2:

We are getting to know each other, we are reviewing math and learning about our community. We are making new friends.

L. Brown - Grade 3:

We have started handwriting. We are studying math facts in computers. In science we are learning about animal groups. We are studying maps in social studies.

Albertans full of ideas

With less than ten days to go, great ideas continue to pour into the Centennial Hotline, a TELUS-sponsored toll-free line set up to record Albertans' ideas for celebrating the centennial in 2005.

Colleen Klein, chair of a strategy committee charged with gathering ideas for celebrating the centennial, says she's not surprised by Albertans' creativity.

"So far we've heard from more than 10,000 people. Some of the ideas that have been suggested so far include scholarships, bicycle tours, pen pal programs, biological surveys, dog-sled relays and the restoration of historic buildings. These are all great ideas and we'll pass them on to the government in our report at the end of the year," said Mrs. Klein.

This won't be Albertans' only chance to have their say on our province's 100th anniversary, but it is an important first step in the planning process."

Anyone who misses the chance to call the hotline can send their submissions before October 17 to: Alberta's 100th Anniversary Strategy Committee, Old St. Stephen's College, 8820-112 Street, Edmonton, T6G 2P8. Ideas can also be sent by e-mail to: celebrate@gov.ab.ca. More information is available on the committee's website at www.gov.ab.ca/celebrate/.

The Centennial Hotline number is 1-888-844-2005. The line will remain open until September 24. Deaf or hearing impaired with TDD/TTY units can call 427-9999 from Edmonton and 1-800-232-7215 from other locations.

The Guiding Life

The time has come again when the leaves are turning and it is time for little girls to earn badges.

Joanne Wygiera, a Girl Guide leader in Didsbury, says Guiding is a positive influence for young girls.

"It provides an opportunity for experience and shared skills in the community, home world, outdoors and camping."

Wygiera says challenges are what Guides is made up of.

Sparks is the youngest level of Guides for girls ages five to six, then Brownies for ages seven to eight, Guides for ages nine to 12 and Pathfinders for ages 12 to 15.

There is also Rangers for girls ages 15 to 17, but there are no Rangers this year says Wygiera, but there should be a group of them next year.

Girl Guides began in the United Kingdom in 1909 and came to Canada in 1910.

Each year Girl Guides from Didsbury participate in programs designed to help develop their role in the community.

"We want them to become more involved in community activities this year," says Wygiera.

"That includes taking part in Remembrance Day Services in Didsbury and other things that come up in the community through the year."

Girl Guides of Didsbury also take part in international events and are hoping to send some Pathfinders to Vancouver next year to meet with other Guides and learn more about other Guiding communities.

Sparks and Guides meet every Wednesday at Eldon Foote Hall and Brownies and Pathfinders meet every Thursday. The Pathfinders interact with the Brownies and the Guides with the Sparks at their meetings to develop leadership skills says Wygiera.

For more information about joining Girl Guides call Joanne at 335-8435.

Beauty School fantastic

Every morning 16 students from Didsbury and Carstairs clear the sleep from their eyes and board the bus to school.

The students are technically still members of their local school, they even take afternoon classes there, but they are part of a special beauty culture class at Cremona School.

Wendy Hibbard, who is the teacher coordinator at Cremona School, says she has high hopes for what her students can do with the special class.

"We are in a portable in the back of the school, which enables us to turn our class into a working salon," says Hibbard. "That is one reason for locating all the beauty culture classes for this area in one classroom as part of the tri-campus program."

Students learn how to run a business as well as provide beauty needs, says Hibbard.

An important component that makes the Didsbury/Carstairs/Cremona program is the bussing which is supplied for the Didsbury and Carstairs students.

"With the cuts to funding it was important for us to locate the class at one school in order to keep it alive for students," says Hibbard. "Similar programs are in the works for welding and automobiles though beauty culture is the pilot project."

Another plus to having the course in Cremona is the fact that a licensed technician is also on hand helping the students.

"Having Rose MacRae here also means students can get their apprenticeship hours in without having to leave the community," says Hibbard.

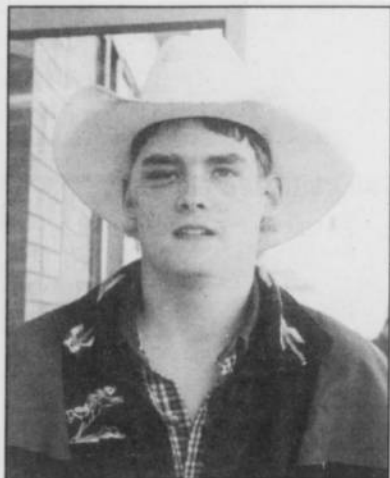

Hibbard says it is exciting to have so many kids involved and to have the opportunity to meet and work with them all.

"We hope to open the salon by the end of September. We will be providing services to the public at very reasonable prices."

Hibbard says the beauty culture class is an excellent opportunity for students to start down their career path.

To book an appointment at the salon or to get more information call 637-3778 between 8:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m.

Pictured above, Trisha Scott of Didsbury watches Kara Clifford also of Didsbury master the art of curling in the beauty school class at Cremona School.

A cowboy recovers

Hearts stopped at the Didsbury Rodeo when a bronc rider, Chad Scott of Delia, was thrown off the bronc and kicked so hard in the head it could be heard in the stands. Scott is happy to report he is getting along just fine more than a month after the incident. He stopped by the Review office and recounted what he remembers of that afternoon. Not much.

Scott spent about three weeks in Foothills hospital recovering after being flown from the Didsbury Hospital by STARS Air Ambulance and being put in the intensive care unit. He says he realizes how lucky he was.

"One more inch..." he trails off. Sometimes no words are more expressive.

Believe it or not, Scott plans to compete again in the saddle bronc competitions just as soon as he gets the thumbs up from his doctor.

A chance for rural dancers

The National Ballet School has announced that Alberta-based Agrium Inc. is the sponsor for the six-city western Canadian segment of the school's 21-city National Tour of auditions, master classes for local dancers and workshops for professionals. Agrium Inc. will also offer ten travel grants of $100 each to help young dancers living over 100 kilometres outside of Calgary and Edmonton attend National Ballet School auditions in either of those two cities.

"We are especially proud to help provide a forum where regardless of their financial circumstances, students have a chance to reach their dreams," commented Cindy Andrews, Public Relations Advisor. Agrium Inc. is a major North American based producer of fertilizer and related products and services to the global agriculture industry.

The Alberta Dance Alliance is proud to partner NBS and Agrium Inc. by administering the applications process of this program and encouraging eligible students from outside of Edmonton and Calgary to audition. The ADA's Executive Director Bobbi Westman commented, "The opportunity to audition for a prestigious institution like the National Ballet School is extremely valuable for promising young dancers; this initiative makes auditions more accessible to those from rural communities."

The Agrium Inc. Travel Assistance Program financially assists Alberta-based students living over 100 kilometres from Calgary or Edmonton to reach those cities in order to audition for the National Ballet School.

To be eligible, students must be entering grades 5 to 12 in September 1998, and must register for the auditions. Applications require a 150-word essay about why the child wants to audition for the National Ballet School, and a recommendation from the child's dance teacher. Applications are available from the Alberta Dance Alliance by phone at 403-422-8107 or (toll free) 1-888-422-8107, by fax at 403-422-8161, by e-mail at abdance@inculture.net or by mail at 2nd Floor, Percy Page Centre, 11759, Great Road, Edmonton, AB, T5M 3K6. Applications must be returned to the ADA no later than October 17, 1997.

The National Ballet School's 1997/98 National Tour will be in Calgary on November 17 and 18, and in Edmonton on November 20 and 21.

Sheryl ROTHERT

So...now what's to eat?

Sheryl Rothert, is a wife, a mother, and an advocate of healthy food choices with a B.Sc., B.Ed. in Home Economics. With more than a decade's worth of teaching experience, Rothert now offers tips and recipes for today's busy family.

Here's one more fast supper to help you get through your busy week! Last week of September - WOW, it sure has gone by in a blur, along with a real odd assortment of weather - sure hope your health is keeping up! Take advantage of those great fruits and vegetables available, and don't forget about your proteins and carbohydrates - this recipe focuses on those and with the addition of a salad, you've got the complete package!

The Night Before Cheese Soufflé

10 slices white bread 1/2 lb. Cheddar cheese, grated
2 2/3c milk, 1% 4 eggs
Dash of salt, pepper, paprika

1. Trim the crusts from the bread.
 2. Prep a long casserole dish with canola spray and put half the bread on the bottom.
 3. Sprinkle with half the cheese, then add a second layer of bread.
 4. Add the rest of the cheese and beat the eggs.
 5. Add the milk and seasonings to the eggs.
 6. Pour over the bread and cheese and place the casserole in the fridge overnight.
 7. When ready to bake, place the casserole in a pan of hot water and bake for 1 hour at 350F.
 8. Serve immediately with tossed salad.
- Serves 4 - 6

Changes: Chopped veggies and meat, such as ham could be added to the egg mixture.

TIP of the week: To add to the simplicity of your meal, serve veggies with dip - kids often prefer to have their veggies this way and it really is the best nutrition for them - once you start cooking vegetables, no matter how short the time, vitamins drift away!

Way of life: Morality and modesty

We live in a day when crude, cheap references to sex are heard on every hand. A permissive attitude in regard to morals has gripped the minds of many so that they despise the flagrantly disregard the laws of marriage and purity laid down in the sacred Scriptures. God, however has given us these high standards and restrictive guidelines for our own good. Their violation leads to lustful relationships, the breakdown of human behavior, and the deterioration of the home and society.

The Lord clothed sinful man at the dawn of history for a wise purpose. Genesis 3:21 states: "The Lord God made garments of skin for Adam and his wife and clothed them." Having lost his original purity, man's imagination ran to vile and corrupt perversions. God knew he would tend to become debased rather than elevated if he was constantly overstimulated by nudity.

The late Dr. Harry Ironside spoke about these matters, using as his Scriptural basis the story of the demoniac in the Gospel of Luke, chapter eight. This insane man, possessed of an unclean spirit, "wore no clothes". However, after Jesus had cast out the demons and healed him, his whole decorum changed. "When this man was saved," said Dr. Ironside. "He immediately abandoned nudity; for we read, he was 'clothed,' and in his right mind!"

God did not set down rules for marriage, sex and modest dress without good reason. Unless our nation comes to its senses and returns to the straight and narrow path of morality and decency, she will suffer the increasing and rightful judgement of God upon her sin.

I would urge each of us readers to search the Scriptures on these matters and become an example rather than a reproach!

A thought to ponder in closing: "Lust and immorality are a canker to the mind, a corrosive to the conscience, and a curse to a nation."

Three billionth Air Mile awarded to Carstairs woman

SHE'S ON AIR
Donna McCallum, centre, receives a congratulatory handshake from Tom Plomske, left, of Shell and Claudio Rodriguez, right, of The Loyalty Group.

Shell Canada announced today that it has issued the three billionth travel mile for the Air Miles Reward Program in Canada.

Donna McCallum, Carstairs, Alberta is the lucky recipient of the Air Miles Reward Program's three billionth travel mile. McCallum earned the award while purchasing fuel at Carstairs Shell.

As the three billionth travel mile winner, McCallum will receive 25,000 Air Miles travel miles from The Loyalty Group, the company that coordinates the Air Miles Reward Program, and a one-year supply of Formula Shell gasoline from Shell Canada. McCallum has been an Air Miles collector since March, 1992 when the Air Miles Reward Program was launched.

"I am so thrilled! I don't believe it," McCallum said when told of her prize. "I use Air Miles all the time. I am such an avid collector. With 25,000 Air Miles (travel miles), I don't know where I could go, but I could go pretty far. This is unbelievable!"

Terry Plomske, Manager, Brand & Merchandising, Shell Canada Products Limited said, "We congratulate Mrs. McCallum on becoming our winner. Shell is pleased to recognise such a significant achievement of the Air Miles Reward Program and we are proud of our long-term partnership with the Loyalty Group."

Shell Canada, where McCallum received the three billionth travel mile, is one of 121 sponsors in the Air Miles Reward Program. In June, 1997, Shell also introduced the Air Miles Reward Program at its Beaver, Penny, Turbo and Payless locations. At Shell, collectors earn one travel mile for every $15 purchase as well as one air mile travel mile for any additional $10 spent.

"The Air Miles program has reached another milestone with the three billionth mile," said Bryan Pearson, Vice-President and General Manager of the Air Miles Reward Program. "The Program's efforts can be attributed to what we have to offer. Over the past year, we have concentrated our efforts on growth and now have 121 Air Miles sponsors across Canada to give collectors more ways to earn free air travel and other lifestyle-related rewards while shopping for everyday goods and services."

The Air Miles Reward Program has enjoyed much success over the last five years with over 5.6 million Canadian households having joined the program. The Loyalty Group now employs more than 424 employees in three offices located in Toronto, Calgary and Montreal.

REIMER
 CONCRETE LTD.

Concrete is the basement building material with all the advantages.

It's a proven performer. Rugged Tough, Durable. A concrete basement will never burn or rot.

And concrete is safe. Quality-controlled, concrete needs no toxic chemicals which may be hazardous to building occupants.

Concrete is an energy-wise choice. A concrete basement needs little heat or air-conditioning. And concrete walls are easily insulated.

Economically, concrete is a good investment. A concrete basement will add years of life to the foundation and considerable dollars to the resale value of your building.

Add up the advantages. There's simply no alternative to quality controlled concrete. The best basement building material.

Grade estimates, with comparison to the last year (in brackets) follow. An estimated 56% (40) of the hard red spring wheat will grade # 1 CWRS, 20% (28) # 2 CWRS, 17% (24) will make # 3 CWRS and 6% (9) will be Canada Feed. 20% (20) of the barley is expected to grade malt, while 66% will be # 1 CW and 14% (11) will grade # 2 CW. 81% (77) canola is thought to be # 1 Canada, 8% (18) should grade # 2 Canada, 5% (4) will make # 3 Canada and 7% (1) will grade Sample. Grade estimates have fallen from last week due to poor weather conditions and could fall further if soggy conditions continue.

Frost was reported at 5 stations this week with mostly very light to light damage. Excessive moisture was indicated by 8 stations with varying degrees of damage. Fall work is beginning in various areas and will become more general as harvest is completed district by district.

Dry, warm weather anywhere from one to four weeks of favourable weather is required to allow harvest to be cleaned up depending on the location.

The key to harvest safety

Good weather and daylight hours are at a premium when you are trying to complete the harvest. Planned maintenance and skilled equipment operation can reduce downtime and the potential for accidents.

Safe completion of any task depends on alertness, knowledge and hazard awareness. It's natural to take pride in our ability to work long days in pursuit of a goal. Nowhere is this more evident than at harvest time, however fatigue, drowsiness and illness frequently contribute to mis-happenings in the field. Recognize when you have had "enough" and turn the operation over to someone else.

Don't rely on stimulants or depressants to keep you going or calm your nerves. Drugs and alcohol work against the keen awareness that is vital to safety.

Operators should be dressed for comfort and safety. Non-slip lace-up protective work boots will protect your feet, plus ankle, knee and hip joints. Close fitting coveralls are a must around machinery and appropriate safety gear should be worn where noise, dust or toxic materials pose hazards.

Periodic breaks relieve the monotony of machine operation. If you are going to eat in the field at least shut it off, climb down and relax for 15 minutes. Try to establish set times for breaks throughout the day. As a farm operator it is crucial that you not push family members, employees or yourself beyond reasonable limits of endurance.

Remember, safety is an attitude, so from Mountain View Partners for Farm Health and Safety, take a break for safety's sake and save a little work for tomorrow.

Have Your Say ...

on Funding Private Schools in Alberta

Some say: "Private schools should receive increased public funding."

Others say: "If parents choose to send their children to private schools, they should pay."

What do you say? The Private Schools Funding Task Force wants to know.

Get the facts!

Information on the current situation and the issues is contained in a discussion paper. The discussion paper and a workbook questionnaire are available:

ROCK AND ROLLER

Claude Baril is preparing to open his new Christmas theme store behind Didsbury Drugs. The new store will be aptly named 'Country Christmas.'

Beef victory won't produce early results

It was a major victory but Canada's beef industry will have to be patient in attempting to access the European Union market.

Larry Sears, Canadian Cattlemen's Association (CCA) foreign trade committee chairman, and President David Andrews, agree the World Trade Organization (WTO) decision that the ban of North American beef treated with growth hormones cannot be justified, is only the first step. They feel there will be no change in market access in the foreseeable future.

"We think the ruling is a first step that will break down fortress-Europe," states Sears. He points out the Europeans are expected to appeal the decision and Canada and the U.S. are still under tariff quota system which is very minute. However, he adds, "The ruling sets the tone for what needs to take place in the next round of the WTO talks in 1999."

The European Union has the potential to be a very profitable market for Canadian producers. Until the ban was introduced in 1989 the market was as large as Japan is, currently, to the United States."

Andrews terms the WTO ruling, "a major public relations victory and justification for the North American beef industry. The European ban was a black eye. Now it's agreed science has rightfully supported our production practices."

"I wouldn't want to suggest to producers in this country that just because we've met the challenge on this hormone issue we're in there immediately. We're still going to have to do some work to develop that market."

Andrews says Europe was once a very significant market, pointing out Great Britain took all Canadian export production at one point in time.

Didsbury Golf Club winds up

By Marge St. Clair

The club wind-up was held on Sept. 7 on just a beautiful day with a full slate of golfers teeing off at 10 a.m. We played a Texas Scramble but it wasn't an ordinary scramble, we teed off with a different club on every hole. After an excellent turkey dinner prepared by the kitchen ladies Sheila and Linda, the prizes were awarded as follows:

First Flight tied Bruce Dunn, Al and Joyce McCoy, Brent Youngs with Gus and Monica Keating, Dave and Donna Fife.

Second Flight: First, Bill St. Clair, Nicole Wilkins, Rod Leaver, Marge St. Clair. Second: Ken Johnstone, John Kavanaugh, Brian and Kelly Hartman, Glen Hardy.

The chipping contest was won by Ray and Ora Wolgemuth, Adolph Wolkoski and Wayne Kary.

The putting contest honors went to Brian and Kelly Hartman, John Kavanaugh, Ken Johnstone and Glen Hardy.

Hole Prizes:

1. Men's long drive #2 - teeing off with a five iron, Greg Lewis.

2. Ladies' long drive #1 - teeing off with the smallest wood, Laurel Mullen.

3. Ladies' long putt #7 - Renee McNeil.

4. Men's long putt #8 John Kavanaugh.

5. Short drive #4 - teeing off with a seven iron (men), five iron (ladies), Glen Hardy.

6. Long driver putt on #6, John Kavanaugh.

7. Water Ball draw on #9, Avy Youngs.

Yeats stymies Sherwood Park

By Barry Williams

Olds Grizzlys netminder Matthew Yeats virtually stood on his head as the Grizzlys shutout the Sherwood Park Crusaders four to nil in their home opener played in Olds on Friday, Sept. 19.

Yeats of Innisfail, who just returned from the camp of the Lethbridge Hurricanes of the Western Hockey League, turned aside 40 Crusaders' shots. Named the game's first star throughout the game robbing the Crusaders continually on their scoring opportunities. The acrobatic goalie was particularly brilliant in the first period making 21 saves.

"Throughout the game, Yeats was forced to make some outstanding saves," said head coach Garry Van Hereweghe.

"Yeats was certainly on the top of his game and rose to the occasion many times," he added.

Although the Grizzlys started with a high intensity level, they later laid back forcing Yeats to make several key saves. In the second period, the Grizzlys ran into penalty problems allowing the Crusaders some excellent scoring chances.

"I thought the third period was one of our stronger periods we played all year," indicated Van Hereweghe.

Although the win was satisfying, Van Hereweghe did note the Grizzlys experienced problems in their own end defensively by losing the one on one battles in front of the net.

Veteran David Weins fired a pair of goals and added an assist to lead the Grizzlys' attack. Other goals were fired by Brian Maloney and rookie Ryan Melbourne. Seidel and Wiens were the other game stars.

Grizzlys split in Calgary

By Barry Williams

Opening the 1997/98 Alberta Junior Hockey League in Calgary, the Olds Grizzlys earned a split in two games played this past week.

On Monday, Sept. 15, the Grizzlys lost a three to one decision to the Calgary Canucks, while on Thursday, Sept. 16, the Grizzlys on an overtime goal with less than a minute to play by Jared Croft the Grizzlys skated to a four to three win over the Calgary Royals.

Against the Royals, the Grizzlys received an outstanding netminding performance from Eric Morley who blocked 45 shots, many on the boarderline of brilliant. For his effort, Morley was named the game's third star, while Croft received recognition for the first star.

After twenty minutes of play the Royals held a one to nil lead, while at the conclusion of the second period the Royals went into the dressing room with a three to two margin. The Grizzlys sent the game into overtime with just two minutes remaining on a goal by Colen Pappas.

The win against the Royals was the first AJHL victory for the Grizzlys head coach and director of hockey operations, Garry Van Hereweghe.

Meanwhile in the encounter against the Canucks, rookie goalie Danny Morgan, a former goaltender with the Carstairs Midget AA Bruins, almost single handedly defeated the Canucks with a sterling performance blocking 35 shots. After one period of play, the Grizzlys held a one to nil lead but midway through the second period, the Canucks took control of the game scoring three unanswered goals.

Against the Canucks, Van Hereweghe indicated the Grizzlys failed to complete their scoring chances.

"We just didn't get enough quality shots on their net," he said.

Van Hereweghe did note the game against the Royals was a more determined effort and he saw some positive signs from both games.

"In the games in Calgary, we were very competitive and we should build on our experience," indicated Van Hereweghe.

Barry WILLIAMS

OVERTIME

So far we have taken a look at the Eastern Conference teams. This week we will continue by viewing the Pacific division in the Western Conference.

Colorado Avalanche

This team is so dominant in every aspect of the game except one; toughness. Many players around the league said the Avalanche weren't the physically imposing team they were the year before when they had Chris Simon and Warren Rychel patrolling the ice. Still, if the Avs can find an enforcer to help deter physical play against Joe Sakic and Peter Forsberg, then they have a legitimate shot at recapturing the Stanley Cup.

Best forward: Peter Forsberg, 28 goals (G) - 58 assists (A) = 86 points.

Best defenseman: Sandis Ozolinsh, 23 G - 45 A = 68 points.

Best goalie: Patrick Roy 38 wins (W) - 15 losses (L) = 2.32 goals against average (GAA).

Player to watch: Josef Marha, a 21-year old centre who scored 72 points while playing for Hershey of the AHL. He should see some ice time this year in Colorado.

Prediction: First place. Despite losing to the Red Wings last year, the Avs feel they have the best team in the league. Not too many people can argue against that, but in order to live up to it they're going to have to get tougher and hungrier.

Vancouver Canucks

A lot of people are going to think I'm crazy for picking the Canucks to finish second but hey, there's just too much talent to ignore here. Alexander Mogilny, Pavel Bure, Mark Messier and Trevor Linden are all above average players along with over-achiever Martin Gelinas and consistent Mike Ridley and Markus Naslund.

Best Forward: Mark Messier, 36 G - 48 A = 84 points.

Best defenseman: Jyrki Lumme, 11 G - 24 A = 35 points.

Best goalie: Kirk McLean, 21 W - 18 L = 3.21 GAA.

Player to watch: Mattias Ohlund, a 21-year old defenseman from Sweden, is a strong two-way player.

Prediction: Second place and at least two rounds of the playoffs is not out of the question. Of course there has to be a healthy and happy Bure and Mogilny, plus consistent goaltending.

Edmonton Oilers

Those young speedy Oilers are probably in for a good year. They have speed, toughness, offence and goaltending. What really does hurt them is defence. With the exception of Boris Mirinov, the Oilers have absolutely no offensive defensemen. That's going to hurt when it comes time to mount a rush or set up a power play.

Best forward: Doug Weight, 21 G - 61 A = 82 points.

Best defenseman: Boris Mirinov, 6 G - 26 A = 32 points.

Best goalie: Curtis Joseph, 32 W - 39 L = 2.93 GAA.

Player to watch: Joe Hulbig, a 24-year old leftwinger is a power forward who must show more consistency to stay in the Oiler's line-up.

AQUA JETS

PROFILES

Patrick Palardy

Patrick has been in swim club for many years... too many to remember. His best stroke is the breaststroke and he continues to work hard at perfecting this stroke. Patrick enjoys swim club because it is fun and he gets to make a lot of different friends from all over the province. "It's a neat experience!"

"My coaches know what they are doing and how to train us to be our best."

Cameron Durieux

Cameron has been in swim club for five years. Cameron's best stroke is the freestyle. Cameron enjoys swim club because he gets to compete at swim meets and it gives him an opportunity to be around friends.

"My coaches are great! They help me to learn strokes so I can swim better."

Jodie Durieux (no photo available)

Jodie has been in swim club for several years. She is a valued member of the Aqua Jets swim club.

Ruth Fitzsimonds

Ruth has been active in swim club for at least nine years. Ruth's best stroke is the freestyle. Ruth is working on improving all the other strokes - any stroke that isn't freestyle. Ruth enjoys swim club because it is not too crowded in the pool. It gives her a chance to meet and be around friends. Ruth has been swimming of the Winter Club with the Calgary Cascades.

Overtime continued

Prediction: Third place. With Cujo in net, and the young guns giving it their all, then you should see the Oilers in the post-season. However if Joseph gets hurt, it's probably lights out for Edmonton.

Anaheim Mighty Ducks

Many hockey fans think that Joe Sakic and Peter Forsberg are the best 1-2 punch in the game. I disagree with that because I think Paul Kariya and Teemu Selanne are the best combo in the game. Between them they scored 208 points with Kariya missing 14 games due to injury. However, with the exception of Dmitri Mirinov, the Ducks aren't so mighty on defence. Hebert as always shoulders the goal tending duties.

Best forward: Paul Koriya, 44 G - 55 A = 99 points.

Best defenseman: Dmitri Mirinov, 13 G - 39 A = 52 points.

Best goalie: Guy Hebert, 29 W - 25 L - 12 T = 2.67 GAA.

Player to watch: Espen Knutsen, a 25-year old centre who just might get a shot in between Selanne and Kariya.

Prediction: Fourth place. The addition of Colorado's Scott Young will help boost the offence. They could certainly use a defensive defenseman as well as an offensive defenseman, if J. J. Daigneault doesn't pick his game up.

Calgary Flames

Young guns is the Flames' marketing theme for this year. The name fits the team perfectly. Last year the Flames had as many as 10 rookies in the line-up. This year those players will have to improve on their play and take a step forward, not back. Two questions which remain unanswered are: Is Rick Tabaracci a qualified #1 goalie? And can Theo Fleury rebound from a horrendous last year?

Best forward: Theoran Fleury, 29 G - 38 A = 67 points.

Best defenseman: James Patrick, 3 G - 1 A = 4 points.

Best goalie: Rick Tabaracci, 22 W - 29 L = 2.70 GAA.

Player to watch: Erik Anderson, a 27-year old 6'3" centre should crack the Flames line-up.

Prediction: Fifth place. The Flames season will probably be determined upon their young prospects. Of course the word prospect means: Chance for success.

L.A. Kings

Youth seems to be the trend for the Pacific division, and the Kings are definitely following suit. It will be interesting to see how far Josef Stumpel can carry this team.

Best forward: Josef Stumpel, 21 G - 55 A = 76 points.

Best defenseman: Rob Blake, 8 G - 23 A = 31 points.

Best goalie: Stephane Fiset, 13 W - 24 L - 5 T = 3.19 GAA.

Player to watch: Jamie Storr, a 21-year old goaltender who should see some action this year with the Kings. He is the undisputed #1 goalie for L.A. in the future.

Prediction: Sixth place. With the young and quick Vitali Yachmenev, and Vladimir Tsyplakov between Stumpel, the Kings will have an average first line. Beyond that however is anybody's guess.

San Jose Sharks

Besides goaltending, the Sharks are anything but threatening. Defenseman Todd Gille led the Sharks in scoring with 21 points. The problem was they were all assists. Owen Nolan and Jeff Friesen remain the bright spots on this team.

Best forward: Owen Nolan, 31 G - 32 A = 63 points.

Best defenseman: Marcus Rognarsson, 3 G - 14 A = 17 points.

Best goalie: Mike Vernon 13 W - 11 L - 8 T = 2.43 GAA.

Player to watch: Alexander Korolyuk. The 21-year old rightwinger will be in San Jose's starting line-up.

Prediction: Seventh place. There is little reason to believe San Jose will challenge for the play-offs, or even sixth place for that matter.

Trivia Question:

Where will Pat Lafontaine play this year? (Just kidding)

Q. Which two athletes are nicknamed "Moose"?

Hint: one plays in the NFL and the other in the NHL.

Last week's answer: Babe Ruth. See you next week with our final stop at the Central Division.

DHS to host ACAC women's basketball

The Didsbury Dragon's Booster Club will host an Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference women's basketball game Friday, Oct. 3 at the Westglen Gym. The defending Alberta Champion Mount Royal College Lady Cougars will play a pre-season exhibition game against the Red Deer College Queens.

This is the second year the two teams have started the season of play in Didsbury and the game will showcase players who have been top high school players from teams in Southern Alberta. Bringing these top players to Didsbury also serves to create interest in the game, especially amongst the young female athletes in Westglen and Didsbury High School. Playing at the college or university level allows players scholarship opportunities in basketball, academic opportunities at the post-secondary level and in many cases an opportunity to travel throughout Alberta and western Canada.

Ticket prices and game time will be in next week's Review with an update of information on the two teams.

016 OBITUARIES

SANDY D. BASWICK passed away September 10th, 1997 in the Didsbury Hospital at the age of 76. He is survived by his loving and dedicated wife and friend June, two sons John (Gloria) and Brian (Wendy), 5 grand children, 5 great grand children, one loving sister Mary (Everet) Kelly of Peterborough, Ontario and long time friend Kay Bailey of Winnipeg, Manitoba as well as many other relations and friends. Sandy was born in Sarto, Manitoba and grew up in Winnipeg, moving to Alberta in 1970 to be with his family. He voluntarily served his country with honour and distinction from 1939 to 1945 with the P.P.C.L.I. throughout WWII, seeing action in the European theater. He remained a loyal and active member of the Royal Canadian Legion until his passing. He touched many lives during his many business and social activities. In later years his major outside interest was his love of golf. He enjoyed surprising many local individuals with his Sandy-Grams; special reminders of their achievements.

*A man's love is always with his family
 No matter how old we are losing a family member is one of the deepest sorrows a heart can know.
 But his goodness, his caring, and his wisdom and vision live on —like a legacy of love that will always be with you.*
 No special service was held at the request of Sandy. Cremation. The family would like to thank the Didsbury Volunteer Fire Department, Mountain View Ambulance, Dr. S. Holder and attending medical staff of the DDHS. Dr. M. Ahmad for his years of tender care. Thanks to friends and neighbours for their unselfish support during this difficult time. Special thanks to Tara (Laverne) Sawatzky and Timothy for their dedicated and faithful years of help and caring for their grandfather. 24-It

016 OBITUARIES

AUSENHUS - Louise Catherine Aussenhus was born January 30, 1904 to Louis and Gertrude Washburn at Charleston, Lee County, Iowa. The family moved to Idaho, where Louise started school. In 1912, they again moved, travelling by covered wagon to Alberta and settling in the Stony Plain district. It was in 1914 that two servants of God, Willie Richardson and Andy Scott, brought the Gospel into the area. Louise became a follower of Jesus in her teenage years. On March 14, 1929, Louise and Odmund were united in marriage, residing on their farm east of Didsbury. Since 1987, Louise has been very kindly cared for in the Mountain View Health Care Centre. Louise was predeceased by her parents; two brothers, George and Ralph; three sisters, Marie, Margaret and Alberta; daughter, Marjorie in 1944; grandson, Marvin in 1980, and husband Odmund in 1994. She will be lovingly remembered by son, Don and wife Leta of Didsbury; daughters, Mildred of Victoria, B.C. and Lois of San Diego, California; four grandchildren, Calvin and wife Beverly of Didsbury, Ellen and husband Royal Stewart of Calgary, Merlin of Houston, Texas, Jeanine White of Calgary; ten great-grandchildren, six nieces, one nephew and a sister-in-law, Alice Aussenhus of Victoria, B.C. Funeral services were held on Wednesday, Sept. 17 at 1 p.m. from the Didsbury Complex with Willis Propp and Merlin Howlett officiating. Interment at Didsbury Cemetery. Mountain View Funeral Chapel, Didsbury, entrusted with arrangements. 24-It

EVERETT - Jamie Kenneth. Jamie was born on November 4, 1964 and passed away suddenly on Sept. 13, 1997 at the age of 32. Jamie is survived by his loving and devoted mother Nancy Woosnam and brother Shawn Everett of Didsbury. Jamie is also survived by his father Ken Everett, a daughter Lynsee and Nephew Dustin as well as many beloved Aunts, Uncles, cousins and friends. Jamie had a zest for life, always throwing caution to the wind and just living life. A huge heart that went out to any and all that needed it. He was loved and cherished by his family and friends and will remain to be so the rest of our lives. A memorial was held in his honor on September 17. 24-It
